CONTRIBUTORS

Leah Ingram, Philadelphia Style's Lifestyle Editor, received her first massage at NYC's tony Georgette Klinger at the tender age of 22—and she's been a pampering junkie ever since. Leah is a former beauty reporter for Allure Magazine, and has published beauty-related stories in the Washington-Post and American Baby, among others. She's also the author of three wedding books, including Your Wedding Your Way. Besides hunting down Philadelphia's best spas and salons for Philadelphia Style, Leah is also a beauty and wellness producer for ModeStyle.com, a new companion web site to Mode Magazine.

Jill Johnson is co-founder and editor-in-chief of Tear Sheet magazine, a New York publication which caters to the international modeling and fashion industry. A former full-time model, Jill lives in NYC and still takes the odd booking—including some which involve early a.m. Amtrak trips to Philly to work with "the most genuine, down-to-earth clients in the fashion biz." Jill tracked down this issue's busy cover model, Frederique, to find out how she has branched out into fields which outlast youth—and what the Dutch beauty advises lovers to do on Valentine's Day.

Hedda Schupak has been writing about (and gradually acquiring) fine jewelry for more than 14 years. She is Senior Editor at the JCK International Publishing Group, publishers of Jewelers' Circular Keystone, the largest trade publication for the jewelry industry. Ms. Schupak writes about jewelry and fashion design for JCK's regular monthly issues, and is the editor of two JCK niche publications: JCK Luxury International, which serves high-end retail jewelers worldwide, and TRENDZ, a new jewelry and fashion publication.

Kathleen Pietrowski has lived in Philadelphia since 1987, when she moved from her hometown of Shillington to attend Temple. Since graduating, she has worked with Pulitzer Prize and Tony-Award winning actor Jason Miller in promoting his plays here in Philly. Outside of her current stints at Philadelphia Style and Striped Bass, she loves to play tennis, watch old movies and travel.

Danish born photographer Martin Gram's unique cutting edge style is well known in London where he assisted with the launch of Sprit Magazine as a contributing editor and photographer. During his four-year stay in London he also created the "LIPS" campaign for the Body Shop. Martin recently settled in New York where he has been shooting fashion as well as journalistic assignments.
